

If an individual account violates the program's Terms and Conditions, would other accounts within that institution be impacted in any way?

Generally, your institution acts as the signatory with Four Points and is ultimately responsible for compliance with Terms and Conditions including payment terms. Both AWS and Four Points work to resolve compliance issues without restricting or removing access to AWS services. The nature of the issue determines the scope of the impact absent resolution.